To Whom It May Concern:

I was given a sample of the Rat off gel. I tried it at two new accounts; the rats were avoiding my bait stations and using new travel paths to avoid my bait stations. I used the gel on the travel paths the rats were using except 1 pathway. The next services I had lots of feeding at my bait stations. I would say it is a useful tool and I will be keeping it in my program.

Our firm has been a beta tester for Rat Out before the full market introduction. We have been using the product since September 2010. It has been applied to both residential and commercial accounts with great success. In every case where we applied it, it immediately deterred or redirected the target rodents. It has enhanced the programs we had in place by significantly increasing our catch rate with minimal effort and cost. We have found the material very economical to use, since each tube provides a large number of applications and is easily carried on the route truck ready for add-on sales opportunities. Rat Out has saved our business time and money while giving us reliable protection for our customers.

Sincerely,
