Tomahawk Bird Trap Instructions

Model 501 Sparrow Trap and Model 503 Grackle Trap

Models 501 and 503 have two trap doors that allow birds to enter the trap. After entering the trap birds become visually confused by the funnel entrance and cannot leave the trap. If desired you may adjust the size of the opening by bending the wire at the end of the entrances but it should not be required.

Bait the location you are setting your trap in for a few days prior to setting your trap with bird seed to get the birds accustomed to feeding in the location you are trapping. If possible use a platform around five or six feet off of the ground with enough space on each end for the birds to perch. When you are ready to catch birds place food inside the trap and wait for them to enter. Both models are equipped with an easy release door to remove trapped birds.

Pigeon Trap Instructions

Model 502, Model 502R and Model 506

Pigeon traps are designed with metal tines that push in easily from the outside but cannot be pushed open from the inside.

Prepare your trapping site by baiting at least twice a day with birdseed and bread for a few days before introducing the trap. Pigeons need water near their food so be sure to place a small source of water near the baiting site. After the pigeons become comfortable eating in this area introduce the trap. Place most of the bait inside the trap.

These traps are equipped with an easy release door to remove trapped pigeons.
